Trumpeter Swan Watch

By Pat Lueders

Trumpeter Swans were nearly extirpated in the early 1900s due to hunting pressures, but over the past few decades populations have started to increase thanks to the efforts by many people and agencies. Monitoring is essential to the recovery of this largest waterfowl species in North America. It provides crucial data on how many Trumpeter Swans use the St. Louis area in the winter, the age composition of flocks, and where some of these individuals travel each year. When the population was nearly extinguished, crucial knowledge of traditional migration routes and winter food sources was also lost. Recreating this knowledge is one of the greatest challenges in the effort to rebuild secure populations.

Missouri observers have recorded the highest number of Trumpeter Swans wintering in states south of the 40th parallel with sightings in 41 of 114 counties. Riverlands Migratory Bird Sanctuary (RMBS) along the Mississippi River in St. Charles County is the single most important wintering site in the southern states with counts of 500 or more in the past few years.

Because of the importance of our area to the Trumpeter Swans’ survival, this winter the St. Louis Audubon Society (SLAS) partnered with The Trumpeter Swan Society (TTSS), the Audubon Center at Riverlands, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers River Project Office, and

Workshop for Homeowners

Powder Valley Conservation Nature Center
Saturday, March 31, 2012 from 8 am to 4 pm

Native plant landscapes have become more popular in recent years due to their functionality and aesthetic appeal. This in-depth workshop, designed for both beginner and advanced gardeners, offers information and resources on how to landscape with native plants to enhance biodiversity, create beautiful habitat gardens and address issues such as invasive species and stormwater management at home, in your own yard. This workshop is a cooperative effort of the Missouri Department of Conservation, Shaw Nature Reserve, St. Louis Audubon Society, and St. Louis Wild Ones. Workshop fee is $15, payable at the door and includes a buffet lunch (cash or checks only). Please register in advance by calling 314-301-1500. For additional details, visit http://mdc.mo.gov/regions/st-louis.

Wanted: Habitat Advisors

Training Workshop March 17th

If you’ve been looking for a creative outlet for your native plant skills, this could be just right for you! Habitat Advisors perform Bring Conservation Home (BCH) landscape surveys, owner interviews and certification assessments and compile their written notes and findings. Advisors will receive a complete survey of their own landscape at no charge. For details on the BCH program www.stlouisaudubon.org/BCH.

The workshop covers the BCH program, its procedures, and key native landscape topics. Prior experience with the four program areas of native plants, invasive plants, water conservation, wildlife stewardship and a long-term commitment to the program will be essential for your success and that of the program. This is a great way to creatively use your training and knowledge to help improve our community one landscape at a time. For additional details including a link to a position description, the required qualifications and an application, see http://stlouisaudubon.org/BCH/training_workshop.php.

You will be contacted after your application is received and reviewed. Those accepted into the program will receive additional details. Please note there is a $10 workshop fee to help cover the cost of supplies, food and beverages.

From the Director

By Mitch Leachman

The older I get, and certainly the greater my experience with Audubon, the more I realize we simply can never say THANKS often enough! It is such an easy thing to do, but so often overlooked, taken for granted or simply forgotten. So, please allow me a few paragraphs to offer some thanks.

First, a very big “thank you” to our many generous donors! We have listed all those that have given over the last 12 months on pages 9–10 of this issue. It is inspiring; over 200 different people chose to support our efforts. In addition, another 30+ individuals and companies gave their products or professional services to help our cause. Please help us thank them by patronizing their businesses, where possible.
Finally, we are receiving a growing amount of financial support from diverse grants and sponsors such as Fred Weber and REI. Their support will be essential to our continued growth and presence in the region.

On a related note, I wanted to share the tremendous success of our 2011 year-end fundraising drive. We began with a letter last November, which many of you received. To our great satisfaction, your response was quick and generous—149 people have given $9,360, the most ever! We had set $10,000 as a “stretch goal,” which is now clearly within reach. Thank you all so very much!

Finally, I want to welcome and thank our volunteer leaders. In recent months, the Board of Directors has filled several open positions. These same positions will be voted on by the membership at our annual meeting prior to the Awards Dinner on April 14th. Please help us welcome Nick Davenport, Katie Park and Mike Walsh to the Board. Nick is a retired construction superintendent and loves all things “bird.” Katie is in her final year at Maryville, pursuing a biology degree. Mike is the Forestry Programs Manager at Forest ReLeaf of Missouri. We are pleased to have their experience and commitment.

With new beginnings also come endings, of a sort; for us that will mean the retirement of several board members this April. We will do our best at the Awards Dinner and in this newsletter to recognize their contributions and thank them for their service. In the meantime, when you see a board member or any of the other essential volunteers that make Audubon “work,” say THANKS! And THANK YOU, too! ◆ the Audubon Society of Missouri (ASM) to begin a citizen science monitoring program titled the Great Rivers Trumpeter Swan Watch. Fifteen trained volunteers were assigned to areas in the Great Rivers region and conducted bi-monthly counts and observations of the wintering swans. The recording form noted where the swans were feeding, resting, the number of adults and juveniles, the other waterfowl present in their area, and banding collar numbers.

Missouri also participated in the nationwide Trumpeter Swan count conducted from January 3–10, 2012 by The Trumpeter Swan Society. A statewide count was compiled using contributions by birders to the ASM list serve, the CACHE & SPARKS data programs, and National Wildlife Refuge (NWR) counts.

Some initial statistics are available and a complete summary of the watch is being compiled by the Audubon Center staff for the TTSS. The largest number of swans counted during the watch was 702 on December 3rd with 276 at RMBS and 350 at Two Rivers NWR. The statewide count of 605 swans in January included 309 swans at RMBS and 255 at Squaw Creek NWR near St. Joseph, MO.

Three collar numbers were submitted on December 13th to the national banding lab and the results were returned as follows:

69C was banded September 3, 2004 in Burnett County, Wisconsin
57Y was banded September 3, 2008 in Sawyer County, Wisconsin
71N was banded September 17, 2009 in Price County, Wisconsin

All three were listed as “too young to fly” when originally banded. Biologists will use our sightings of the birds to assist in evaluating the success of their programs.

The results if the 2011–2012 Great Rivers Trumpeter Swan Watch will be available in the future at the Audubon Center web site http://riverlands.audubon.org/. If you would like to participate in this valuable citizen science project, watch for a request for volunteers later this year. ◆

On Arctic Ground, an Alaskan Journey

St. Louis Zoo—Living World

Wednesday, March 7th at 7:30 pm

Join us for a sensory journey through the largest expanse of wild lands remaining in America, along with its rich diversity of arctic wildlife: wolves, caribou, grizzly bears, Dall sheep, wolverine, dinosaurs of the past, and a host of migratory birds from all corners of the world—the National Petroleum Reserve in northern Alaska. Author, teacher and adventurer Debbie Miller shares her three summers paddling 400 miles of rivers in the National Petroleum Reserve. She has explored the wilderness of Alaska for more than 30 years. Her forthcoming book On Arctic Ground (Braided River, May, 2012) explores the National Petroleum Reserve.

Debbie is the author of Midnight Wilderness: Journeys in Alaska’s Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, a book that is based on 14 years of adventures exploring the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. A passionate advocate for protecting the Arctic, she has also authored 15 nature books for children about Alaska's wildlife, such as A Polar Bear Journey and Survival at 40 Below. Debbie will be available for book signings after the program. ◆

Restoring the Confluence

Thursday, March 22nd at 7:30 pm

Please join us for our annual joint program with the Eastern Missouri Group of the Sierra Club, to be held at the St. Louis County Library’s Mid County Branch. Quinn Kellner, Manager at Jones-Confluence Point State Park, and Dean Bossert, Deputy Manager of the Big Muddy National Wildlife Refuge, will deliver a joint program on the history of and habitat restoration plans for their respective public areas at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers.

Confluence Point covers 1,100 acres of owned and leased floodplain in St. Charles County, directly opposite Columbia Bottom Conservation Area. Cora Island covers 1,265 acres on the north side of the Missouri River, almost immediately upstream of Confluence Point Park. The habitat plans for these areas will greatly improve the high-quality natural areas available for birds and other wildlife, while offering greater opportunities for passive recreation in the region.

The library is at 7821 Maryland Avenue in Clayton, Missouri 63105 at Central Avenue and just blocks from two Metrolink Stations. The program is in the large auditorium. Questions, call (314) 599–7390. ◆

February Birding

by Pat Lueders

Ten brave birders ventured out in the 20 degree weather Saturday, February 11th to bird the Baldwin Lake IL/ Peabody Coal areas in Southern IL. We started by searching the Red Bud/Hwy 154 area for the Snowy Owl, and we are happy to add this species to the list of the great birds seen on this trip! With help from Chris Brown and our scout car of Dave & Maryanne Marjamaa & Anne Kirkpatrick, we saw the Snowy Owl at a distance, about 1/4 of a mile south of Hwy 154 and west of Prairie Rd. Some members of the group went back for a better view since it was a life bird for them. Baldwin Lake reminded me of trips to Duluth with steam coming off of the surface of the water. We found a Ross’s Goose feeding with a flock of 77 Cackling Geese (thanks Maryanne for counting them). There were a number of Shovelers in the lake and a large flock of Snow Geese could be seen in the middle. In addition to a Red-Shouldered Hawk, a number of Bald Eagles, Red-tailed Hawks and Kestrels were seen in the area. A Golden-crowned Kinglet and Hairy Woodpecker joined some of our winter residents in the trees at the entrance.

At the Kaskaskia River boat launch at the southwest corner of the lake, we saw a number of ducks from the blind including Gadwall, Mallards, Green-winged Teal, Ringed-Necked Duck, Common Goldeneye, Ruddy Duck, and Pied-billed and Horned Grebe.

The agricultural fields on the way to Peabody Coal yielded Horned Larks, Killdeer, & Meadowlarks. We encountered a few flocks of Common Grackles that numbered individuals in the 100’s. The entrance to Peabody had a flock of 200 Ringed-billed Gulls in the field. Matt Malin, a Cape Cod birder new to our area, found a Bonaparte’s Gull in the river slough at the northern end. We searched for, but didn’t locate, any shrikes but did see a number of Northern Harriers, Red-tailed Hawks, Hooded Mergansers, and Snow Geese flying over. At dusk, with our group spread out for coverage, we found 3 Short–eared Owls near the sign, ironically, that said “Short–eared Owl Roosting Area.” One landed twice on one of the owl perches provided by the refuge giving the group great looks! We were treated to a beautiful sunset as we left. ◆
